Curriculum Manager now available
December 9, 2019

The Office of the University Registrar and the Next Generation Student Systems (NGSS) project are pleased to announce the availability of Curriculum Manager (CM). The August 28, 2019 release marked the University of Pennsylvania's transition to a curriculum management process that is automated and adaptable to meet each School's needs.

Curriculum Manager is used by faculty and staff to modify, track, and approve new and existing courses and programs. CM uses electronic forms and workflows to manage the curricular approval process.

The value this new application provides the University was best expressed by Mike O'Brien, Associate Director, Student Records, Wharton Undergraduate Division:

Curriculum Manager shows so much potential for the management of courses and programs within the Wharton Undergraduate Division and the University as a whole. The clean, modern interface makes it simple for staff to learn, and the workflow allows for a better understanding of how a particular course made it from conception to classroom. I'm excited to see where Curriculum Manager takes us in the future!

We wish to thank the core team, including staff members from the Office of the University Registrar, Office of the Provost, and the NGSS project team. We are thankful for our partners in the schools and central offices throughout the University who worked collaboratively to develop, test, and launch CM. A special thank you goes out to the School of Arts & Sciences for its willingness to pilot and provide feedback on an initial version of CM.

Please join us in recognizing the many individuals who dedicated their time and effort to developing and implementing Curriculum Manager:

Lisa Waring, Mike Budischak, and the technical team that worked on the Bridgelet and Data Warehouse activities.
